

Occupational Health & Safety

Cameron-Cole offers a wide variety of services to assist employers in meeting Occupational Safety and Health (OSHA) standards. Such services include –

- Assessments to determine applicability of standards and gaps in compliance
- Plan development for requirements such as hazard communication, fire prevention and emergency action
- Compliance tools for standards such as walking/working surfaces; machinery and equipment use; egress; occupational health and environmental controls; PSM & hazardous materials; PPE, and others
- Recordkeeping and reporting assistance
- Health and safety management system development and implementation

Many OSHA standards require certain types of training for employees, supervisors and others. Cameron-Cole offers training courses to meet these requirements, including (but not limited to):

- Personal protective equipment
- Hazard communication
- Confined space entry
- Bloodborne pathogens
- Lockout/tagout
- Hazwoper (8 & 40 Hour)
- Emergency response

Cameron-Cole

creating sustainable success

www.cameron-cole.com